Subject: Junior Java Developer – Swift

Dear Sir or Madam,

I would like to express my interest in the Junior Java Developer vacancy published on your website. Joining your tech talent incubator is the best opportunity a junior developer can have to work for a global scale provider such as Swift.

After 10 years working as a sound engineer, I recently made the decision to reconvert professionally. This is why I first followed an intensive 7-month IT bootcamp at BeCode, where I was able to learn the basics of Git, HTML, CSS, Javascript, SQL, and PHP and create my first projects with frameworks such as Vue.js, Laravel, Bootstrap, and Tailwinds CSS using OOP and MVC concepts. Then I had a 3-month internship experience in a Spanish start-up named Clunnity, where I had to build an MVP to attract future investors while using the Agile methodology and practicing the diagramming of databases and flowcharts. Finally, I have recently finished a 6-month certified Java training at Digitalcity.brussels, which allowed me not only to specialize in backend development of REST API's with Spring and Spring Boot, but also to create a full-stack project using the front-end framework Angular. My attached resume expands on my IT professional experience and latest projects.

The goals I want to achieve in the near future are to acquire more development experience and to consolidate my current knowledge, putting all of my hard work into a real project. I remain at your disposal for any further information and thank you for considering my application.

Sincerely,

Marcelo Romero-Cors Araya
